

Update for British Riding Clubs in Scotland 10 March 2021

At last, the future is starting to look more positive and following the announcements on 9 March we have now spent some time reviewing the Government's announcement.

The Government in Scotland have announced some easements to the current lockdown and we have interpreted the guidance for British Riding Clubs. From 12 March BRC competition and training activities can resume, with some restrictions in place. The table below details the easements and what you need to know to organise BRC activities.

Updates will appear in red.
